Sample 1

I would like to talk about Jenny, who is the most talkative person I know.

I got to know Jenny because we were in the same class in high school.

Jenny is very out-going and she enjoys to talk about all kinds of things with us.

For example, she likes to talk about arts, music and movies because these are her biggest hobbies, and she would share with us anything she read on the internet right away.

Most of the time, I think she is very friendly and I felt very comfortable when I was around her.

However, sometimes I thought she could be very loud especially when I was trying to study or do my homework, but she was very considerate and she would leave me alone if I told her so. I really like her and I think she is a great friend to have.

I would like to talk about Martha, who is the most talkative and outgoing person I know.

I got to know Martha because we are in the same class and we become friends instantly.

Martha enjoys talking about all the things from celebrity gossip, things happened in school, news and even weathers. I enjoy talking about celebrity gossips with her because we have the same idols.

She is very easy-going and therefore, she has many friends at school. Everyone feels comfortable around her and she is also elected as the monitor of my class.

Sometimes, I think she is too loud especially when I am tired. But most of the time, I feel very happy around her because she is also very funny and she would tell us all kinds of jokes. I really like her and I think she is really adorable.
